Malcolm Fraser runs the Strand

By John Dixon

Mr. Malcolm Fraser is the new licensee of The Strand Hotel, at the corner of North Road and The Strand, Newport.

● Malcolm Fraser (standing) having a drink with three regulars (from left), Harry Bassett, of Newport; Charlie Axelsson, of Newport and Grant 'Bluey' Ward, of Williamstown. Marian is serving the drinks.

But all you unionists and Labor supporters in Williamstown and Newport, don't start putting a black ban on The Strand, even though it's across the road from the power station.

It's not that Malcolm Fraser who's moved in and his wife's name isn't Tammie.

It's Marian and she's a sister of John Newman, of Ticki and John Restaurant fame.

Malcolm took over on Monday from Bert Caneva, who held the licence of the brewery-owned hotel for 19 years.

Bert has retired from the hotel business and bought a house in Templestowe.

The area is not new to Malcolm and Marian, who came from Geelong. For three years until last January they ran the Oriental Hotel in Williamstown.

Altona 'no' to 3-way cash move

Altona Council has rejected a suggestion that it link with Footscray and Williamstown councils in a bid to get more Government money.

Instead, the council considers applications for grants should be channelled through the Western Region Commission.

The suggestion of a three-council approach was made by Williamstown Council, in a letter received at Altona Council's last meeting.

The letter asked if Altona and Footscray thought there would be any purpose in a joint submission. Commenting on the letter the town clerk, Mr. Sid Fell, said council had supported the Municipal Association in its bid to obtain two per cent of personal income tax by progressive annual increases.

This approach was on the understanding that specific purpose grants to local government were maintained in line with rising costs.

Williamstown's approach probably stemmed from the Municipal Association's secretary's suggestion that some councils might benefit from grouping together within electoral boundaries.

Unlike many parts of Victoria, this area had a joint front in the form of the Western Region Commission, Mr. Fell reported.

The WRC had already made its submissions on behalf of member councils.

"The council may consider that if the Western Region Commission is to function, then it must be the voice of communication on matters of a regional nature," Mr. Fell commented.

Grants commission allocations came into this bracket.

Cr. Ted Hubble said he felt the WRC was the appropriate organisation through which a joint approach should be made and councillors agreed with this.

Support for plan to cut sponsor care

Altona Council will support a proposal to have sponsor responsibility for migrants reduced from 10 to three years.

A decision to do this was made at the last council meeting, after a letter had been received from the Western Region Community Relations Committee.

The letter pointed to the plight of aged migrants who are permitted to enter Australia on condition that a sponsor signed a document accepting responsibility for the aged people's welfare for 10 years.

The sponsors were usually the children of the aged people, the committee said.

It asked for the council's support in having the residential requirement cut from 10 to three years.

The committee was also seeking consideration of special benefits for migrants experiencing hardship during the three years.

Cr. Alan Shaw moved the council support the committee. This was seconded by Cr. Bill Somers and carried.

Protest mural

The anti-Newport lobby in Williamstown has made a silent protest.

Last weekend a group of local artists painted a large mural on the wall of a dentist's surgery in Douglas Parade, in Williamstown's shopping heart. (see picture).

Measuring 20ft by 10ft, the mural depicts two suns, one against a bright blue sky, the other a faint glimmer through a darkened sooty skyline.

The graphic asks passers-by, do you want this — or this?

Dentist, John Cividin said he gave permission for the mural because he sympathised with the protestors.

Big increase in bus trips to Laverton

A big increase in bus services between Altona and Laverton started on Monday.

Announcing the increase, Minister for Transport, Mr. Rafferty, said it was part of the Government's programme for improving transport in the western suburbs.

"These new services will cater particularly for the fast growing housing areas between Altona and Laverton," Mr. Rafferty said.

He said an extra six trips would be made by Altona Bus Services between Altona and Aircraft Station, Laverton, on week days.

This was in addition to the existing services operating between Pier Street, Altona, and the corner of Bladin Street and Old Geelong Road, Laverton.

Mr. Rafferty said the new services would leave Altona from the bus stop at the corner of Pier and Blyth streets, outside the Commonwealth Bank.

He said the stop at Aircraft Station would be at the corner of Aviation Road and Railway Avenue.

The route to Laverton from Altona would be via Blyth, Maidstone, Queen, Shirley and Alma streets, Merton Avenue and Railway Avenue.

Working for aged is reduced

The Western Region Committee on the Ageing has been forced to cut back its former full-time staff member's work to a part-time basis.

Williamstown Council was told this at its last meeting, in a letter from the executive secretary of the committee, Mr Frank Purcell.

The letter said the committee was established before the Australian Assistance Plan was introduced, but through the plan the committee had been able to employ a full-time staff member.

A request had been made to the Social Welfare Minister, Senator Foyle, for continued funding.

But because family and community services were at present being reorganised, this would not be dealt with for some time.

The committee had bridging funds which would enable it to retain the staff member on a part-time basis until December, the letter said.

"By then it is hoped that funding possibilities will be more definite and that the committee will be able to continue its role for the aged in the west," it added.

No ramp at ferry landing

A boat launching ramp will not be built at the old Williamstown ferry landing point.

Williamstown Council has been told this by its environment director, Mr. Garnet Price.

Mr. Price reported to the council's recreation and leisure committee that both the Harbor Trust and the State Electricity Commission had said they would not agree to a ramp at the old ferry site.

Council referred the matter to its general committee, for consideration of alternative sites for the ramp.

Fire protection costs $65,049

Fire protection for the City of Altona will cost the council $65,049 for the new financial year.

This represents an increase of 12.65 per cent. on the previous year's cost, $57,743.

The figures were quoted to the last council meeting in a report by the town clerk, Mr. S. Fell.

The Metropolitan Fire Brigade Board had told him it had to budget for an increase expenditure of 16 per cent, Mr. Fell reported.

Estimated maintenance costs for the MFBB had risen from $1,523,000 to $2,025,000 this year, an increase of 32 per cent, he added.

Leisure is Patsy's business

Introducing Ms Patsy O'Dowd, Williams-town's new recreation officer.

She has a diploma of recreation education from the Footscray Institute of Technology.

After completing that two-year course she worked for the Department of Social Welfare as a recreation officer at Winton youth training centre for about 12 months.

"I see my new role as that of co-ordinator of community recreation, organising, helping and advising on recreation activities in this city," she said this week.

"Recreation is an experience that we are all exposed to because of increased leisure time.

"I feel it is important for this leisure time to be an intrinsic and enjoyable experience.

"People are a great wealth of untapped ability. Each of us, old, young or handicapped, has something of interest to share with others, whether it be in an active or passive sense.

"Perhaps we can all untap that wealth and leisure can become more of a way of life."

Ms O'Dowd works from the Williamstown Council offices in Ferguson Street, phone 397 1800 (ext. 245).

"I'd like to hear from all of you," she said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Out of touch with Newport

SIR, — The Liberal Government's "out of touch" handling of the Newport situation prompts me to make the following observations to you:

a) The grand scale of gas wastage proposed for Newport looks more criminal each day as we read and hear about the worsening energy crisis throughout the world.

Many northern countries which experienced fuel shortages last winter would love to have in reserve the amount of gas we propose to waste over 30 years.

The wasted gas I refer to could heat to eight degrees celsius 500,000 gallons of water a minute.

b) As we use and waste our fuels at an ever-increasing rate we bring ourselves closer to the day when we will have to use nuclear power, the dangers of which cannot be overstated.

Until the disposal of the dangerous wastes is perfected, we must not allow its use anywhere.

Meanwhile, the ANU solar power research unit is being starved of funds.

(c) While the debate is maintained at the "who runs the State" level, sane and enlightened decision-making has no chance.

When will the welfare of the people of Victoria be considered?

The Government sets no example in an age where most decision-making is conducted in an atmosphere of confrontation.

(d) The Premier, Mr. Hamer, has just returned from Europe having attempted to raise a loan to build Loy Yang power station.

Why spend $500 million to build a power station at Newport when the fuel can be used in existing heaters and furnaces at greater efficiency?

John Marks, (82 Ferguson Street, Williamstown).

Pam's Column

Hi Girls,

This week I have 3 new Revlon promotions to tell you about. The first is called "Great Lustre" — it is an automatic lip gloss with a sponge tip applicator. Great Lustre is a superb formula which is wax-free, moisturising and full of shine. The applicator applies just the right amount of lip-stick to the lips, no need for sticky fingers with messy pots. Great Lustre is available in 5 colours and 1 clear, all of which can be worn alone or over any other lipstick for an added gloss. Brown Lustre, Coral Lustre, Clear Lustre, Copper Lustre, Pink Lustre and Soft Red Lustre.

The second new product for Revlon is "Little Love Pats," you may already use the regular size Love Pat compact, well this is a great, Little Love Pat compact with mirror to carry in your pocket, hand-bag or purse for touching up during the day. Love Pat is an all in one make-up (foundation and powder in one), perfect for today's active woman. It gives great coverage and is long wearing (does not dry the skin). You have the choice of two colour compacts, Bone or Green. Available in these 5 popular shades — Cream Beige, Soft Beige, Tawney Beige, Toasted Beige and Creamy Ivory.

Girls, did you know that your face loses more than 6 quarter teaspoons of moisture every day? That's because every day you face a moisture depleting environment. Daily exposure to the sun's rays (even in Winter), wind and cold can rob your skin of vital moisture, even central heating, and air-conditioning can dry out your skin. That's why Revlon has created three highly efficient new beauty treatments.

Bi Phase Moisturiser — the most important product, a light non-greasy moisturiser to wear alone or under make-up works two ways:

1. Provides a protective barrier to shield skin from the drying effects of the environment.
2. Takes in and holds moisture on the skin.

For all skin types Moondrops Deep Action Cleanser — Unclogs pores and removes impurities, can be used on all skin types except a very dry skin. Contains almond grains for extra scrub action and almond oil for extra moisturising benefit. Oily skin can use this cleanser 3 times weekly, normal skin once weekly. Moondrops Treatment Soap — Works thoroughly but gently to remove dirt and make-up. Natural moisturising capsules release protective lubricants during cleansing to prevent drying out the skin, leaving the face soft and clean.

BILL HELPS SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY

Just what is community education, and what does a community education officer do?

Many people have asked that question since the recent appointment of a community-education officer at Williamstown North Primary School.

The Williamstown branch of Community Outreach wrote to the Star-Advertiser last week to explain just what is involved in the job.

Community education officers (CEO) are responsible for establishing worthwhile programmes in schools, within the community.

Williamstown CEO Bill

Tepper is at present arranging parent-teacher nights; helping local schools develop holiday programmes; and planning after-school activities for children.

The community-education programme also includes courses in pottery, music, drama, macrame, and many more subjects.

Bill Tepper also wants to hear from people interested in joining one of the following discussion groups: coping with tension; teenagers today; how to help educate your child; understanding your child; relating to others; parents; students and education.

Those interested in any aspect of community education should ring 397 7349, on Monday, Tuesday or Thursday, from 10 am to 2 pm, or call in at 3 Freyer Street, North Williamstown.

Street cost could be 5½ million

A private street scheme on a North Williamstown industrial estate could cost more than $5½ million, Mr. Garnet Price has told Williamstown Council.

Mr. Price, the council's environment director, said the average cost for each block, gauged on the scheme starting in 4½ years' time, would be $18,158.

There are 303 blocks involved in the scheme, which includes land in Albemarle, McAulay, Chelmsford, Tennyson, Pink, Bentley, Church and Orange Streets.

The work will take about two years to complete.

Mr. Price in reporting that design of the scheme has been completed, said it seemed "highly probable" that job costs will rise substantially during construction.

"My opinion is that a minimum of 18 months will elapse between council receiving the scheme and work starting," he said.

"We should attempt to fix the longest period likely to elapse between receipt of the scheme by council and work starting ..."

"It is conceivable that objectors could raise legal points after the matter has been dealt with by the arbitrator, and the case could be taken through the Supreme Court to the High Court."

"I am not saying that this is likely to happen, but if it did, the start of the job would be delayed considerably."

"Let us say, for the purpose of this exercise, that it would add another 12 months to the delay."

"Shortly I will attempt to evaluate the effect on the estimate of these two delays — of 18 months and 30 months — but before that, consideration must be given to the possibility of rising costs."

"It is impossible for anyone to foresee how construction costs will rise over the next four and a half years."

"For some time I have been assuming that they rise at the rate of 20 per cent a year."

"We are now in a position to prepare two estimates for the job."

"Assuming an 18-month delay and a two-year construction period, the cost will be $3,789,620 at the start, reaching $4,585,440 by the end.

"This is the 'best start' estimate."

"The 'worst start' estimate assumes a 30-month delay and two-year construction period."

"The cost would be $4,547,035 at the start of the job, and would reach $5,501,913 at the end."

"As a matter of interest, if council were letting a tender now, the cost would be $2,883,346."

"While the difference in cost caused by the best and worst start estimates is very high, common prudence points very strongly to the choice of the worst start estimate."

"This choice reduces council's financial risks without significantly increasing the cost to the abutting owners."

"Another consideration worth noting is that the abutting owners are entitled to 10 years' terms."

"If they avail themselves of this, and inflation continues, rises in the nominal value of wages and incomes should substantially reduce the burden of repayment," Mr. Price said.

His recommendation, that council agree to the preparation of a "worst start" estimate, was approved.

TRUGANINA CEMETERY MAY BE REACTIVATED

Suggestions were made at last week's Werribee Shire Council meeting that the Truganina Cemetery might well be brought back into service in the foreseeable future.

It was considered that Werribee's future development northwards would bring the now relatively remote cemetery back into consideration for use.

A report by the shire engineer, Mr. John Nicol, that a development plan for Werribee General Cemetery to enable it to accommodate a proposed lawn area had been completed.

He added that it was anticipated that the long-term needs for an additional cemetery area might receive discussion by council.

$1000 grant for anglers

Kororiot Creek Angling Club has received a grant of $1000 from the Department of Youth, Sport and Recreation for the purchase of VHF radio equipment.

Mr. Gordon Stirling, MLA (Williamstown), in making the announcement said the club had played an important part in relaying distress signals since joining the Port Phillip Bay safety group last year.

However, a major problem faced by the club was the restriction by silting of the mouth of the Kororiot Creek, Mr. Stirling said.

As a result of several representations over past years, the Minister for Public Works agreed that Kororiot Creek has potential for development to provide a haven for a greater number of small craft.

The Ports and Harbors division will investigate the economic feasibility of providing a satisfactory scheme which includes adequate seaward access.

Match of the day on Saturday is between Williamstown Juniors and Werribee Under 13s. It starts at 8.45 a.m. at Fearon Reserve.

Vikings need more help with juniors

says Alan Burkitt

The cancellation of weekend matches in both the Western Suburban and Footscray District leagues left many young men and boys with time on their hands.

But it offered some respite to the small band of parents who spend long weekend hours looking after the teams.

Lack of support is less important in open-age ranks whose players have their own cars. But in junior ranks, the problem is as big as ever.

As the boys get older, parental support lessens and by the time they reach under 15 and 17, it is almost non-existent. Why?

Is it because the boys do not encourage their parents enough?

Are boys from 14 years on drifting away from the family circle to the extent that Mum and Dad don't really know what they are doing most of the time?

Is it because parents have other interests? Or don't they like football?

Whatever the reasons, lack of support makes the Altona City (and probably most other football clubs) a king-sized babysitting organisation each week-end.

Unless the coach or team manager owns a small passenger bus, he often has to make more than one trip to an opposition ground with loads of players.

The team manager often has to double as goal umpire or time keeper, leaving no one to help the coach with the team.

If a boy is injured, the job of looking after him can be a further embarrassment to the coach.

Many parents also fail to realise the high cost of running a football club.

The cost of umpires, first-aid equipment and footballs has to be met each week as well as the occasional new sets of jumpers and other items.

The clubs could be at fault for not continually asking the parents for support, but I believe they shouldn't have to.

Any parent who could help in any way can send a message to coach or team manager. It would be appreciated.

Even those with little knowledge of football can be useful. Time-keepers don't need to know the rules, neither do trainers or first-aid attendants.

Anyone with two arms and normal eyesight can act as a goal umpire (I have seen many one-eyed ones) and more transport to and from games only takes time.

One way parents can really help the Vikings is by supporting the annual SUPA dance on August 5. Ticket applications have been sent home with the boys but response has been slow.

With the possibility of more teams being fielded next season, the problem will worsen.

The few who help can only do so much.

Newport girl captains State lacrosse

Newport lacrosse player, Val Orr is captain of the Victorian women's senior interstate lacrosse team.

Vice-captain, Leonie Parker, is a member of the Williamstown Lacrosse Club.

Six other local girls are also in the State team.

They are: Lynne Blunt, Colleen McVeigh, Fran Pepper (Williamstown), Vivienne Carling, Elaine Matthews and Sue Mellis

(Newport). Seven of the girls are present or past students at Williamstown High School.

The Victorian team will play South Australia at Royal Park on Saturday at 2 pm and Tasmania at 11 the next morning.

Scott is table-tennis champ.

John Scott won the Western Suburbs Table Tennis Association's A grade singles championship when he beat former title holder Steve Slattery 21-10, 21-18, 21-12 at the WSTTA headquarters, Williamstown, last week.

Scott pressured Slattery from the first ball and overpowered him in a classic attacker versus defender encounter.

The match featured many exciting rallies.

In A reserves, Geoff Baldwin won his second singles title when he beat Altona West's Neil Harris.

After a series of long rallies, Baldwin finally won 21-17, 24-22. He came from 15-20 down to clinch the title.

Most improved player, Frank Brunt partnered by John Zgudka beat Kris Luber and Gary Hoffman to win the A reserves doubles final.

The score was 22-20, 21-17.

Altona Youth Club scooped the pool in B grade when I. Schofield beat P. Byrne of Hick Timbers 21-13, 21-12.

In the doubles, Schofield teamed with J. Bennett to beat M. Byrne and G. Marks of Hicks Timbers 17-21, 21-16, 21-16.

J. Tait won the C grade singles by beating W. Styes 19-21, 21-16, 23-21.

Styes and Herdel beat O'Halloran and Threlfall 22-24, 21-12, to win the C grade doubles.

In D grade, B. Mackrill beat W. Willis and doubles players, Azzopardi, and Darmah beat Threlfall and O'Halloran 27-25, 21-12.

Gulls meet old rivals

The Seagulls meet their old rivals, Port Melbourne, on Sunday in the second half of competition.

Port has the upper hand. The result was a one-point win to Port. Ted Whitten had charge of the Seagulls that day.

The last time Williamstown played Port at home, North Port on Saturday and the Seagulls are ninth. The seconds play at Junior games were cancelled last weekend.

SWING SLOWER IF HANDS SEPARATE

Study illustration #1 and note how snugly the thumb of the left hand fits against the meaty pad of the right thumb. This is the main point of contact between the two hands. For consistent shotmaking, it must remain constant throughout your swing.

The main danger point in the swing is at the top of your backswing (illustration #2). Check to see if you are holding your contact point between the hands intact (illustration #3).

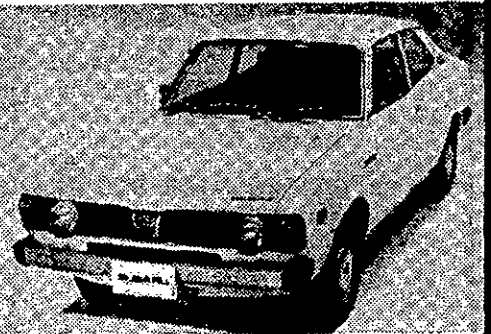

If your hands are separating at this juncture, it's probably because you are swinging too fast. Slow down your backswing until you can "set" your hands into position at the top without their tending to move apart.
